FRESHENING UP OUTSIDE

Give your weather-beaten outdoor furniture a whole new look

After a few seasons, the sitting area in anyone's backyard, patio or balcony space can begin to look grimy and old — particularly if you live in a more humid environment. But there's no need to buy a whole new set of furniture. With the right preparation, the right paint, favorable weather conditions and a little elbow grease, you can get it all looking good as new.

CLEAN SURFACE

Make sure you have a clean surface, otherwise the paint won't properly adhere to wood, metal or plastic. Wipe away all dust and dirt, as well as any rust or old paint flakes. Try to remove or smooth over any other imperfections. For wood, lightly sand before painting. Wash everything after each step. If hardware is in place, remove it and label everything for easy reattachment later.

RIGHT TOOLS

Make sure you have the right tools before work begins. For instance, brush-on paint may require a pan and stir sticks. You may also need rollers or smaller brushes to get paint in tight spaces within the furniture. Table tops and bulkier items are more easily painted with large rollers. Invest in gloves, painters tape or masking tape, drop cloths and protective eye wear, as needed.

MANY CHOICES

There's a difference between paints formulated for indoors and outdoors, and plastic furniture requires its own special products in order to bond properly. Make sure you buy the right version. Brush-on paints work best with primer, and make sure both are applied smoothly. Thinner coats go on more easier, while also drying more quickly. Two coats is usually a good rule of thumb on any painting project. There's no need for primer if you choose a spray paint option. Keep the can the recommended distance from the furniture as you paint, working in bursts to avoid drips.

WHERE YOU PAINT

Check paint can guidelines for temperature ranges, then pay close attention to the weather forecast. Some formulations won't adhere if it's too hot or wet outside. Make sure you paint in a well-ventilated area to avoid the accumulation of potentially toxic fumes. A shady spot will give you a break from the heat while encouraging the paint to dry more evenly. Don't forget to hydrate!

LOOKING FOR A NEW HOME OR A CUSTOM BUILDER?

We are pleased to invite you to attend this year's New Homes Tour!

The housing market has been starved for inventory since 2020. The low housing inventory we're currently experiencing is caused by an increase in demand for houses without the supply to meet it. On behalf of the Building Industry Association, we are excited to provide new homes available for the tour. Are you searching for a builder to build your dream home? Whether you own the property, purchased land, or are in the market to purchase a lot and do a custom build, the New Homes Tour is a great way to gather inspiration.

Join us for the New Homes Tour during the first two weekends of June (June 3-4 & 11-12) from 11:00 am – 5:00 pm. Admission is free.

Start by visiting any home included in the tour. Simply visit www.TheNewHomesTour.com to download your New Homes Tour map and explore the greatest in new home construction in Clark County.

The tour includes entries from several award-winning builders, making it the perfect venue to meet your future builder. Come and learn about these companies and meet their expert staff! If you are in the market to purchase a new home, the New Homes Tour is your prime opportunity to experience diverse homes and communities.

We are confident you will enjoy visiting this beautiful array of homes built with timeless quality for modern living. We'll see you there!

KNOW YOUR ZONES

Sometimes, it's not that you have a black thumb. Maybe you've been buying the wrong plants for your USDA growing zone.

The growing zones are a temperature minimums for your area, ranging from the coldest — 1a, or -60 to -55 degrees Fahrenheit — to 13b, or 65 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

Each zone represents the mean extreme minimum temperature — meaning it's the average coldest temperature. It does not mean that that's the coldest it's ever been or ever will be. You should still prepare for somewhat colder temperatures than what is shown on the map.

FINDING YOUR ZONE

You can find your USDA growing zone by going to the interactive GIS map at planthardiness.ars.usda.gov and entering your ZIP code. If you don't have a broadband Internet connection, you can also find static images that will load better on your connection. Experts at your local garden center or agricultural extension office will also be able to tell you your hardiness zone.

NEW DATA MEANS NEW ZONES

This is the first time the USDA has offered the upgraded GIS map, and it's been updated with data from 1976-2005. GIS technology has a higher level of resolution and can show smaller areas of zone definition than previous iterations of the map. It may show, for example, a warmer zone around a larger city because cities tend to hold more heat than rural areas or a cool spot around a hill and valley.

The new map also has new zones. Zones 12 and 13 have annual extreme minimum temperatures above 50 and 60 degrees, respectively. You can find these zones in Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Even though these zones do not include a freeze, they will enable gardeners in these areas to plan for conditions to suit tropical and semitropical plants.

ZONES AND CLIMATE CHANGE

What you shouldn't use the zones map for is any evidence of climate change. Climate changes usually show up in records for 50 years or more. Because the zone map uses 30 years of data, it shouldn't be considered reliable evidence of whether or not there is global warming.

MAKE A POLLINATOR BUFFET

Pollinators are what make the gardening world go 'round. Birds, bats, bees, butterflies, beetles and small mammals work to pollinate plants just by going about their busy lives in our garden.

This helps plants reproduce (meaning flower and fruit). Not only are the flowers and fruits pretty and tasty, but pollinators at work also help prevent soil erosion and shrink carbon footprints.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Help pollinators by creating space in your garden for them. Here are some pollinator favorites from the gardeners an Monrovia.

STONECROP, OR SEDUM: Rich foliage and clusters of flowers are the hallmark of this perennial. It's available in a variety of colors and heights, including a groundcover variety that's popular with bees.

MILKWEED: It's not just a source of food for monarch butterfly larvae. Milkweed nectar is also good for a whole host of butterflies and bees. There are many varieties, but choose one that's native to your area to support your local pollinator population.

CONEFLOWER, OR ECHINACEA: Traditionally petaled in bright pink, there are now varieties of coneflower in every color of the rainbow. No matter what color you pick, these tall, showy blooms look great in the garden.

LAVENDER: It smells great and attracts hordes of pollinators. Gardeners in warm, humid climates may find lavender tougher to grow, but there are varieties that work.

CAPE FUCHSIA: This hardy perennial is a favorite treat for hummingbirds. The plant boasts tubular flowers that are perfect for the tiny birds to sip from. Hardy from zones 6-10.

YARROW: Beautiful yellow flowers and ferny foliage aren't the only treat these plants pack. Yarrow also attracts hoverflies, lacewings and ladybugs which, in turn, will eat up aphids, mealybugs and mites.

GOLDENROD: Fluffy orange flowers are an important food for migrating monarchs and also benefit bees, the good kinds of wasps and helpful flies. Look for an easy care variety that brings beauty to the garden without a lot of work.

BLUEBEARD: Deep blue flowers appear in the late summer and go into fall, when pollinators need the nectar most. Add bluebeard to prairie and wildlife gardens to extend the pollinator feast into autumn.

BUILDING FUTURES FOUNDATION FOCUSES ON SKILLED TRADE TRAINING TO ADDRESS WORKFORCE SHORTAGE

Building Futures Foundation (BFF) a 501(c)(3) organization that has raised more than $186 thousand and awarded 112 scholarships since 2007 is addressing two problems with one solution.

critical to thriving communities and households. Annual earnings for skilled trades in Washington range from $60 thousand for painters to $100 thousand for plumbers. Skilled trades typically require some training through a technical program, an apprenticeship, or on the job training. Comparing skilled trade salaries to careers requiring a two- or four-year degree, it becomes even more compelling.

In addition to its work with CTE programs, Building Futures Foundation raises funds and distributes scholarships that support training and tools for students pursuing skilled trades or starting their own small businesses. On June 15, 2023, BFF will host its annual fundraiser, Casino Royale Night sponsored by Riverview Bank. The public is invited to attend and contribute to the scholarship fund. Contact Bart Hansen at bart@biaofclarkcounty.org for ticket information, to donate a silent auction item, or to provide a monetary donation to the scholarship fund.

First, middle and high school students are often shuttled through a one-size-fits-all approach to curriculum. The majority of high school curriculum focuses on the college pathway when only about 35 percent of students pursue this approach. The other 65 percent of students find themselves searching for sustainable careers that only require a high school diploma.

Second, the construction industry has been suffering the brunt of an unprecedented workforce shortage. According to Construction Drive, a recent study indicates that the industry has a workforce gap of a half a million workers. The shortage is being exacerbated by an education system that has overlooked skilled trade training in recent history along with a generation of skilled trade workers who are aging out.

This is changing with renewed focus on Career and Technical Education (CTE) in the local school districts. BFF and local schools have recognized a common lifeline for students who will not pursue a college degree and the construction industry that will screech to a halt without skilled trades. As recent as May 2023, Evergreen Public Schools unveiled its new Skilled Trade Center, a facility that will develop students to enter trades utilized in residential construction.

BFF has taken an active role in supporting, sponsoring, and promoting CTE programs throughout Clark County. Skilled trades are

WHERE TO STORE IT ALL

Get more out of the outdoors by putting away all that stuff

Creating and maintaining usable and enjoyable living spaces outside often means accumulating all kinds of gardening supplies, pool accessories and outdoor dining tools, among other things. Keep it all tidy and tucked away with these fun and functional storage options.

GARDENING SUPPLIES

Get more out of your shed by hanging a show rack on the door for smaller tools and other things needed around the lawn and garden, like clippers or gloves. Hooked items can be stored on one of the sidewalls by installing a traditional bathroom towel bar. Repurpose a now-unused baby's changing table or an old hutch for use as a potting bench.

Attach a pegboard to the wall of the shed or your garage to create a quick and easy organizational hub. Customize it with baskets, shelves and hooks to store away anything you need for outdoor gatherings or gardening tasks. Place a rolling basket or cart nearby to transport everything.

POOL ACCESSORIES

Mount shelves in your garden shed for clean towels. Plastic stackable storage bins are a great option if you need to round up floaties, pool toys, diving rings and other small items. Pool noodles and skimmers can be tucked away in a wood pallet after it's been turned on the side. Install coat hooks on the front to dry bathing suits and towels, and to store masks and goggles. For larger pool rings, place shorter flag poles beside the shed.

FOOD AND BEVERAGE

Convert a storage cabinet or hutch into a serving station or bar. The lower shelves or drawers can be used for storage, or remove several of them to create space for a cooler or small refrigerator. Stemware can be hung from a rack at the top. Those who are more adept at woodworking can create more elaborate things like a hanging bar with wood pallets.

ADDITIONAL STORAGE

Newer outdoor furniture options often have modern storage features, so be on the lookout. Other existing items like beverage carts or raised garden planters can also be updated to help keep your space tidy and neat. A small unused bookcase can be turned into a bench by turning it on the side and adding a cushion.
